Dear FCC:

I hope that you understand the importance of K-LOVE radio broadcasting in my local area. I live in a rural community that does not receive all the radio options that bigger communities receive. I feel extremely blessed to have the option to tune in to K-LOVE and hear the music that I prefer to listen to.

The effect that it would have on my local community if K-LOVE were to be displaced by an LPFM broadcaster would be a loss of hearing preferred Christian radio broadcasting, a loss to those that cannot attend church or get out to attend Christian concerts, hearing uplifting, encouraging messages, and the potential to save someone's life by hearing that others care through the music, programming, and announcers sharing this message constantly! Plus, having the availability to contact K-LOVE by phone or on-line for prayer and information.

In my opinion, it is in the public's best interest to have K-LOVE and like broadcasting continue on the airwaves because they are reaching people that do not have the means to attend church services or gain support for their needs (emotionally, spiritually) in any other capacity. Plus, for me, while I am busy in my home or outside, I am able to listen to programming that is of a great support to myself and to my family. Families in our community can be helped and given valuable support through K-LOVE.

I hope that you will consider having K-LOVE and other broadcasting networks like this, remaining on the air.

Sincerely,

Rosaleen A. Simmons
